Vitamin C suffers a dose of politics. The controversy over whether vitamin C can be used to treat cancer calls into question the ability of the medical establishment.